Hawaiian
Electric Company.

The cleanest, brightest safest and really in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe; nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said:
"Give me figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me.
Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks." This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light.
Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want.
We have a complete stock of everything in this line and have just received a lot of the very latest designs in chandeliers.

ENGLAND'S INDIAN ARMY

CONTRAST OF MEMBERS NOW AND IN MUTINY TIMES.

British Troops Amount to 73,000 Men —Native Troops Number 165,444—Value of Native Troops Well Laid.

The uneasiness felt in England with regard to affairs in India leads much interest to an article in the current number of Blackwood's under the title of "The Native Army of India." The author, says the Washington Star, the characteristics of the different tribes represented, and the security of the comparatively small number of Englishmen living in the country, all are touched upon.

A comparison is made between the conditions of forty years ago and the conditions of today. In 1857 there were in India 38,000 British and 348-000 native troops, the former handling 276 field guns, and the latter 248. The natives in arms then stood to the whites as ten to one, and were almost equal in the matter of artillery.
Today the proportions are 73,000 British with 88 batteries of artillery of six guns each, and, including the imperial service troops, 165,000 natives and 14 batteries. So that now the natives in arms stand to the whites as only 2 1/2 to 1, while the artillery in the hands of the natives is only one-sixth of all in the country. It is thus to be seen that the whites in the time stated have materially increased their power. They have likewise, this author believes, greatly benefited by the improvements that have been made in the management of the whole military establishment of the colony, which have simplified the old arrangement and invested the commander in chief with more authority.

A large meed of praise is bestowed upon the natives in arms. They are described as good fighters and full of endurance. The Gurkhas, the Sikhs, the Dogras, and other tribes are mentioned by name, and instances are cited where in battle they proved themselves worthy to stand by the side of the pick of the British. Some have dash, others patience, under fire, and all have the qualities of closing with an enemy whenever he appears.
But, as this author holds, the natives need to be led. "When placed in a commanding position he lacks self-reliance, the ready assumption of responsibility, the capacity for organization, the eagerness to assume the initiative, all of which are essential to a leader of men. This fact was the secret of the English success against the Indian peoples while still unconquered; it was equally the secret of the failure of the Indian mutiny, and it is the secret at once of the strength and of the weakness of the present military system."

BRITISH AFRICAN EMPIRE.
The Paris Soleil thus concludes a study of what it believes to be the British ambition to found in Africa an empire extending from Alexandria to the Cape. "So far, the Transvaal and the Orange Free State have resisted British absorption. But it is certain that the two republics will sooner or later be drawn into the orbit of English domination unless they find in Europe powerful and effective support. The dream of English imperialism from the Cape to Alexandria is no longer a chimera. It becomes a reality. During the final years of the century about to close England will have succeeded in carving out for herself in Africa, from end to end of the continent an empire of which the power of production and consumption will equal, if not exceed, in a near future that of her Indian empire."

NOT ON THE TICKET.
A sensation was sprung at the Central Committee headquarters yesterday afternoon by the announcement that there had been an omission in the ticket filed and consequently the entire ticket would be illegal. After working everybody up to fever heat the member making this announcement stated that the omission consisted in the failure to include Rainier Beer on the list of candidates for popular favor. Rainier Beer, however, does not need to be on any ticket, as it was long ago voted to be the best beer made on the coast. Criterion Saloon. Telephone 780.
